Sidney to Have Veterans Memorial Park

Barry Cole, President of the Sidney Community Foundation (SCF) and Brigadier General James McIntyre, USAF (Retired), President of the newly formed Sidney Veterans Memorial Park Association (SVMPA), have jointly announced an agreement reached between the two organizations to develop a veterans memorial park in Sidney on property owned by the Foundation. The park, seen as long overdue for Sidney, will recognize and memorialize the military service and sacrifices of Sidney area veterans, past, present, and future - that are or were, residents of Sidney Township or the area defined by today's Sidney Central School District. The new park will be prominently located at the corner of River Street and NYS Route 8 with site preparation to begin in late spring.

Park planning has evolved from the initial idea for an alumni veteran's memorial in the Prospect Hill Cemetery, a proposal first brought to the attention of the Board of Directors of the Sidney Central School Alumni Association in 2007 by Steve Anderson and Blair Puffer, current SVMPA members. Since then the group of dedicated veterans and other passionate community supporters working on the project has grown, ultimately organizing as SVMPA.

In collaboration with other local veterans and community groups, SVMPA has developed the plan into arch what is envisioned today - a separate and easily accessible community park in a beautiful, dignified and peaceful setting - a place to visit for remembering, meditating and reflecting on the rights and freedoms we enjoy as Americans and the great cost of securing and maintaining them.

As seen in the accompanying architectural renderings, preliminary plans include a 50 x 12 foot paver walkway leading to a central plaza containing the park centerpiece – an eagle crowned bluestone monument to all veterans,

Though complimenting materials will be used throughout the park, local bluestone will dominate, with all the bluestone for the park being generously donated by a local veteran and his wife, Robert and Deborah McDuffey, owners of American Bluestone.

Another unique focus of interest for visitors - a six foot high wall, erected as a backdrop to the flag court, is planned to be composed of 12"W x 8"H laser-etched granite plaques recognizing the individual service of local veterans which will contain, as optional items of information, veteran picture(s), military awards, unit crests or insignias and brief descriptions of service.

Fundraising for this important community project will begin soon. Donations will be accepted by the Sidney Community Foundation and will be fully tax deductible.

Aerial overview of the Veteran's Memorial Park is show in this architectural drawing.

Plans to permanently recognize donors at various levels include the mounting of a brass plaque in a prominent location near the entrance. The minimum donation for recognition on the plaque is $500, whether a business, organization or individual.

All donors will be recognized in a printed program at the park dedication ceremony. Additionally, several community organizations including the Sidney Central School Alumni Association (SCSAA), American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) have expressed keen support for the project and may consider sponsoring a key park element as depicted in the accompanying illustrations, or contribute a privately designed, complimenting monument or memorial to the park, raising funds for their respective projects internally.

SCSAA's Alumni Veteran's Memorial Committee Continues under Leadership of Joe Hager, '61

The officers of the Sidney Central School Alumni Association (SCSAA) Board remain committed to recognizing the military service and sacrifices of the Sidney Central School's alumni military veterans in the form of an alumni veterans memorial. The goal is to see the proposal for an Alumni Veterans Memorial (AVM) become a reality.

Initially, the SCSAA Board formed an alumni veterans memorial committee to effect liaison with the Prospect Hill Cemetery Association to discuss the possibility of erecting an "alumni veterans memorial" on the grounds of Sidney's Prospect Hill Cemetery. However, this effort was superseded when the alumni veterans and local veterans, with the support of other community groups, recognized the need for development of a veterans memorial park to recognize and memorialize the service and sacrifices of all Sidney area veterans resulting in the establishment of the Sidney Alumni Veterans Park Association (SVMPA).

The purpose of the SVMPA is to develop a Sidney Veterans Memorial Park in a suitable location in Sidney. As discussions continued, the Sidney Community Foundation agreed to provide land for the development of the Sidney Veterans Memorial Park. This collaboration was reported in the March 3rd Edition of The Tri-Town News; and there was an architect's rendering of the "Sidney Veterans Memorial Park" included as an enclosure to the recently distributed Sidney Community Foundation Newsletter.

The SVMPA was in continual communication with the SCSAA Board as the circumstances evolved. Recognizing that the initial concept of erecting a SCSAA alumni veterans memorial on the grounds of the Prospect Hill Cemetery had been overcome by events, and that the SVMPA was addressing the development of a much larger project, SCSAA Board President, Terry Dermody, asked Joe Hager ('61) to chair a re-formed SCSAA Alumni Veterans Memorial (AVM) Committee to see to the interests of the SCSAA. The re-formed AVM Committee is to effect liaison with the SVMPA for the purpose of erecting an "Alumni Veterans Memorial" in a prominent location within the Sidney Veterans Memorial Park.

The re-formed AVM Committee consists of Joe Hager ('61) as the chair, and members: Shane Eaton ('98), Blair Puffer ('70), Bill Schmidt ('61), and Dane Woytek ('68). The AVM Committee is gathering information and is soliciting support in the development of the final design and the construction of the "Alumni Veterans Memorial" in a prominent place within the Sidney Veterans Memorial Park.

past, present and future, standing a total of 10 feet high off the plaza floor. A flag court is located opposite the entrance and behind the main monument with the American flag flying above the five flanking service flags and POW/MIA flag. Ample space is available for additional risers, benches, monuments and accouterments; and, the park and elements included are expected to grow and evolve over time. Trees will be planted on the grounds with ornamental landscaping bordering the walkway, plaza, flag court and wall. 1 1 5 5

To ensure that this project is completed for all to appreciate, today and tomorrow, the generous support of the entire community is sought.

The local contact for the Sidney Veterans Memorial Park Association is Lieutenant Colonel Paul Beames, USMC (Retired), 1st Vice President, at (607) 563-1111.

The officers of the SCS Alumni Association Board remain committed to seeing the Alumni Veterans Memorial (AVM) become a reality.

Though the initial efforts to establish an alumni veterans memorial on the grounds of the Sidney Cemetery were unsuccessful, a subsequent AVM committee has been formed. This alumni veterans memorial committee is in liaison with the Sidney Veterans Memorial Park Association with the purpose of establishing a prominent "Alumni Veterans Memorial" within the Sidney Veterans Memorial Park.

Several ideas and many discussions have taken place over time regarding the type and style and design of the SCSAA "Alumni Veterans Memorial" since the idea of erecting such a memorial was first proposed by Blair Puffer and Steve Anderson in 2007. The AVM Committee is considering design ideas, but has not yet submitted a final design recommendation to the SCSAA Board for approval. The design, type and style of the "alumni veterans memorial" should recognize, acknowledge and memorialize the sacrifices and service of our alumni veterans; and should reflect the heritage, traditions and vision of the Sidney Central High School.

Much work remains in bringing the "alumni veterans memorial" to fruition. Alumni and local residents and local

What has been going on around here! Just thought you would like to know!

Creating Alumni Weekend.....it is almost time.

If it is spring, Alumni Weekend can't be far behind. Alumni Weekend is synonymous with the SCSAA. There is no SCSAA without Alumni Weekend. Our plans for Alumni Weekend 2011 are coming together, and I hope yours are too. This year the dates for Alumni Weekend are July 15th-17th. Make sure they are on your Calendar. We have been at this since the snow drifts towered over our heads— by this winter's standards— a long time. So you can expect one great time.

Alumni Weekend has always been something extra special to me and it is my fervent hope it will become that way to you too. For those who have been returning faithfully over the last decade you know exactly what I am referring to. To all those new, and particularly younger, faces that have been arriving on the scene, you too will soon learn the special essence of Alumni Weekend.

You will discover that Alumni Weekend not only serves as an occasion to renew old friendships and share old memories with your classmates but, over time, affords you the unique experience of fostering new friendships with Alumni spanning all generations who have shared our common experience of school and community.

This unique experience is something that will last your entire life and would not have been possible if not for Alumni Weekend. Who would have thought that I would ever be allowed to socialize with upperclassmen? Because of the opportunity created by Alumni Weekend, I now consider many of those who I admired from afar as some of my best friends.

We have been working hard to make this years festivities a memorable experience. So keep the spirit alive and find your way back to your hometown for Alumni Weekend.

Where to find great food in Sidney

When you make your trip to Sidney for Alumni Weekend or any other time of the year, you will be happy to find some very fine eating establishments.

The newest addition to the eateries in town is Suzi's Bake Shop and Café located at 3 Main Street. Suzi is a fine baker and each day features different treats, from delicious cinnamon buns and muffins for breakfast (along with the traditional breakfast fare) and soup, sandwiches and daily specials that can take you all the way to lunch and beyond.

Also serving yummy breakfasts as well as lunch and dinner is Nancy Hathaway's Trackside Diner located at 88 Main Street. This is diner fare at its' best with daily specials great coffee, friendly servers and a welcoming atmosphere. Friday and Saturday the diner is open 24 hours.

You will find several articles in this issue providing information on this years event. Please note that luncheon reservations can be purchased on our website using pay-pal. All reservations received by June 1st will be entered into our early bird reservation promotion ands eligible to win a $100 gift card.

Accelerating our effort to establish Alumni Chapters... we are getting close.

As I read through this issue, I noticed photos of Alumni gatherings. What does that tell you? Some of you will just see a picture of classmates getting together for a good time. I see an Alumni Chapter.

If you have been following my column or heard some of my recent speeches, you will know that I am on a mission. Alumni Chapters have become a major initiative and theme for the SCSAA in 2011. I pledge to you this will be the "Year of the Alumni Chapter".

Why do I have such an obsession for Alumni Chapters? Many of you have exclaimed that every time I open my mouth all you hear is "Alumni Chapters this, Alumni Chapters that". The answer is that not only am I obsessed but I am convinced that strong Alumni Chapters can provide the catalyst to achieve some of the goals and objectives that we have been striving to meet for years. I envision a Chapter as a major resource for the SCSAA; a resource supporting our efforts for membership, recruitment of volunteers for our Board and committees, and as a source of nominations for the Sports Hall of Fame and Wall of Fame for Distinguished Alumni and Faculty, among other things.

I envision the Alumni Chapters as the geographical equivalent of class representatives. I am aware of some informal groups out there that could easily become a full fledged Chapter. So I challenge you to become the first to Charter a Chapter. I will be glad to assist you in this endeavor in any way possible. Contact me at derm65@optonline.net. Not only will you be creating a valuable resource, but it could be great fun. So get started and organize a local gathering by first identifying a local leader to host an event.

The Clubhouse at the Sidney Golf and Country Club features a menu that never fails to satisfy. Jeannette Stevens and Erica Briggs will welcome you and not let you leave hungry.

Be sure and stop in at any or all of these establishments while in Sidney . You won't be disappointed.

For anyone still looking for a place to gather with your classmates, Roma, Trackside and The Clubhouse offer space and catering capabilities. See you all in July!

www.romapizza.biz Welcome Alumni These gatherings could take the form of a dinner or a picnic, a house party or a special activity such as a day or evening cruise or a golf outing. There is not particular way to do this. Just use your own imagination. But do it. Help me ease the burden my obsession

Stay tuned. To get the Chapters moving and provide an incentive I will be making a major announcement during Alumni Weekend. All I can say is that those groups who are in the process of forming a Chapter will have an advantage - so get started. You will be glad you did.

Installing conference capabilities.....

The Association is becoming high-tech. We are in the process of installing a telephone conference system. Why? To deal with my other obsession of expanding our volunteer base. Yes, the motivation for this was to get YOU involved.

Frequently, when I ask you to join the Board of Directors or become a committee member, the most common objection I hear is that you are unable to attend meetings because of geographical DISTANCE. We do not want distance to become an obstacle to your participation in the Association.

This system will allow us to grow our pool of potential volunteers by allowing you to participate remotely. I think the Association has been missing out on some valuable input and this system will play a role in bringing your ideas and participation to the forefront.

I look forward to the day when the composition of all our committees involves Alumni from all geographical areas. Next step: video conferencing.

Postscript to Fall Reflections Story on Richard "Ike" DeMott 1917 - 2010

(Ben DeMott '51 and his brother Dick "Ike" DeMott '39)

On September 12, 2010, my Ancient Order of Hibernians division from Binghamton, NY did our "Day of Caring" at the New York State Veterans Home in Oxford, NY. We had American USO girls and Irish USO girls (note in the pictures), along with a choir of 12 members; who sang with us and who distributed gifts to all of the residents who came to see us that day. Our USO girls sang many songs from the WWII war years and danced and interfaced with the residents there. The day was a perfect gift for all of us ~ the residents loved the nonsense that we acted out.

Olivia DeMott, a second grader at Sidney Elementary School, was dressed as a train conductor and sang and danced to "I've Been Working on the Railroad." She is Rob and Bridget's daughter

Within the next couple of weeks, Dick was not feeling so well and within a month, he had to be transferred to Bassett Hospital for an amputation of his leg and care he needed for recovery. to schools and one still hangs in T.A. Restaurant in Walton, NY

Unfortunately, the one poster which our student, Devon, made honoring Ben and Dick DeMott was used at Dick's funeral, as he was too weak to recover from his surgery. The poster was displayed as you came in to the funeral hall on the day of Dick's burial.

He had passed on November 7th, 2010 and as the arrangements unfolded, his funeral was held on November 11, 2010 - 11th month, 11th day at the 11th hour – the exact hour that veterans consider such a sacred time. May he rest in peace.

Marie Barnes Rifanburg passed away in October of 2010. This tribute came to late to be published the fall issue of the newsletter so it is included here.

Marie Barnes Rifanburg (was Dann by her first marriage) from the Class of 1962 died October 22, 2010.

By Dolores Hayes Breunig

I had gotten to know her again just recently as I was in a small quilting group that met at Pat Rafferty Smith's house on Tuesday afternoons during the cold weather months. We all enjoyed Marie's company. She fought a courageous battle with cancer. I had wanted to take a picture of Pat Rafferty Smith, Cheryl Loker Axtell, Marie Barnes Rifanburg and myself (since we were all 1962 Sidney graduates) and submit it to Reflections, but sadly we never did that. The other two girls in our group worked with Marie at The Hospital, Sidney billing department. For too short a time people from her past had come together again enjoying our shared passion of quilting.

The celebration of life service was at the Methodist Church in Sidney. The church was packed full of friends and relatives and after hearing the stories about Marie, we all realized how many people's lives she had touched with her kindness and caring that she had shared with her family, friends and church congregation at the Columbus Community Church.

At the end of three days, we had a new understanding of Veterans Day and had good ideas for our posters. I had taken the picture above of my husband Ben and Dick at the show and one student proceeded to make his poster – featuring Dick. Class of '48 Annual Reunion

The show must go on, and with the characters in this class, the run will go on for a while. It all started two years after graduation in 1950, then in 1953 and every five years thereafter, through the 55th in 2003. Starting in 2004 we thought it might be best if we had a gathering every year (wonder why?). We did it up big for our 50th but we scaled down for our 55th and 60th. We are now back into the luncheon mode for a few years. This years bash will be at the newly renovated Trackside Dining banquet room, Main Street in Sidney, Friday July 15, 2011 at 12:30pm. Following dinner, all will rendezvous at Helen Dickson's house, 13 Pleasant Street for digestive spirits and some farewells. For questions or information call Bev Preston Gregory, 607-563-7912 or Dick Dickson, 607-563-1206. We welcome all or any "class crashers" You too "Hummy". God Bless America,

Spotlight on Class of '56 Joan Brush Wilson

Once upon a time, I went to school in Sidney NY. It's a neat little town, but it has changed a lot since I lived there. I lived out past the end of River Street, on River Road. We were the last house before the county and town line, and across the street from the airport. The little stone house that my Dad and Mom built was moved down the road into Bainbridge when the airport was expanded, along with the bigger house where I spent my grade school years. It seems strange to come upon them in the wrong place and the wrong relationship to each other.

High school, then as now was a mixed experience. From 7th grade on, I walked a mile and a little more, spring, fall and winter. That made for cold fingers in typing class, but it sure was good exercise. If I were to walk that much now, I probably wouldn't be overweight. I was tall and always ended up in the back row in class pictures. Often right next to Charlie Glenn. I played field hockey and intermural girl's basketball, sometimes softball too. I sorta played the violin. Remember the Talent Shows? Pretty painful. I worked in the guidance office with Mrs. Peckham, and was on the staff of Maroon and White and The Reflector.

I was the classic nerd, or 'brain', as we were called in those days. I was taller than most of the boys, so never had any dates until junior year. As a senior, I dated a man from Pennsylvania most of the year, so again didn't date my classmates. I mostly hung around with the Root cousins, and others from the Methodist Youth group. I played some sports, and went roller skating on Saturday nights. In class, I was the annoying one who got the answers first, but I never made much sense of the discussions in Mrs. Metz' or Mrs. Ruland's English classes. Math and science made a lot more sense to me.

From Sidney, I went to Harpur College in Endicott. I was there for the start of the new campus out on Vestal Highway, now Binghamton University. We lived in converted houses in Endicott, and most classrooms were in similar houses or else WW2 Quonset huts. There were a lot of Korean vets in my classes. In the first 2 years, there was no cafeteria. More walking all over Endicott, as we ate breakfast, lunch and dinner in local restaurants. In my junior year, we moved to new dorms and gym on the new campus, and were bussed back to Endicott for classes. By my senior year, everything was on the new campus except science labs. Guess who was doing independent work in chemistry, and needed a car to get back and forth to the labs.

The summer after Harpur, I was married to a fellow chemistry major, Claude Wilson. We spent the summer in Syracuse on student fellowships. He investigated making rayon fibers, and I studied a very powerful bleaching agent for pulp and paper, called chlorine dioxide. Did I mention that we were at the College of Forestry? That fall, we both went to Columbia University. I had an NSF fellowship that was awarded before we got married. As soon as they found out about the marriage, they refused to renew the fellowship for the second year of grad school. Apparently in 1957, married women were not capable of being students, even if they graduated cum lauda from college. I worked as a TA one semester, and then my professor was able to The end of grad school was pretty tense. My husband had finished his research in electrochemistry several months ahead of me and accepted a faculty job at the University of Pittsburgh. That left me alone in New York City, with a small child, his thesis to type (no word processors in 1960) – didn't every wife type he husband's papers and other work? – and my own thesis to type and write. The times have changed a little bit for the better.

After Columbia, I joined Claude in Pittsburgh, took a part time postdoctoral job in a biophysics lab at Pitt, and got pregnant again, with another great little boy, Mark. He is now teaching ancient history in New York City, and working on his doctorate.

As described above, I did some part time teaching of chemistry at the college level, and one semester as a science teacher in an elementary school.

Biodynamics/ Boehringer Mannheim, Indianapolis, IN, R&D and manufacturing development, 1976-80

Coulter Diagnostics, Hialeah, FL R&D Senior Development Manager, clinical chemistry, 1980-82

Corning Medical/Ciba Corning Diagnostics, Medfield MA, several R&D positions, ending up as Sr. Staff Scientist/Individual Contributor. 1982-96.

Adjunct Faculty, UNCC, Charlotte NC, 1996-97

Adjunct Faculty, Johnson C. Smith College, Charlotte, NC 1998-99

After that, I was done with teaching, and the only paid work since then was in a shop that made decorative flags for homes and businesses. That's where I started moving to the other side of my brain!

Claude moved on to a teaching job at a college in Indianapolis, and I became a part-time faculty member at the same school, and mostly a mom to the two boys. Claude and I divorced in 1977, and suddenly I needed a job with fringe benefits and full time pay. I went to work for Boehringer Mannheim, a pharmaceutical company that was getting into clinical diagnostics. These are the blood tests, mostly, that are used in hospital labs. I was in research and development, helping to make these tests accurate, reliable, stable and manufacturable. It was a great field to be in, and several of the projects I worked on made it to market. I ended up with a couple of publications and one patent.

I've lived in several places in the eastern part of the country, and travelled for both business and pleasure. I was offered a job in Southern California, but decided against it for both cost of living and family considerations.

I've taken several cruises, two of which were with teachers of machine embroidery. On the days that we were at sea, we had classes and parties, and when we were in port we were tourists. One classmate arranged a tour of fabric shops in Puerto Rico. I'm still in touch with some of the people from those cruises.

Joan and sons Bruce and Mark.

Retirement has been an interesting chapter. I tell people that when I retired, I moved to the other side of my brain. I'm now doing the creative things I never had time to do when I was working full time. Mostly, I play with my two embroidery machines. I just finished a huge fleece picnic blanket for my grandson's wedding, and now I'm working on putting paisley embroidery patterns on a denim duster. I lived in the Charlotte, NC area for 14 years after retirement, and I highly recommend it. It is such a pleasant place, with 4 real seasons, mild winters and friendly people. I made many friends at church, socially and in an embroidery club. However I also developed a number of medical problems, and decided that I needed to be closer to Bruce so he could help me manage the complications.

Last July, I moved to a continuing-care retirement community in Knoxville, TN. I'm in the independent living part, and have a wonderful house that is bigger than my condo in NC. All inside and outside maintenance is done for me, and today they picked up my mail and paper at the end of the drive and brought it to my door because of the snow and ice. It's nice to be pampered! I'm starting to make new friends at church, the community, and again in an embroidery club.

I am now very happy with the retirement community I picked, glad for the computer and internet to keep in contact with family and friends.

arrange a fellowship from the NIH, where marriage wasn't a criterion.

I gravitated to the biological side of chemistry. My research was on a beautiful blue enzyme that we isolated from the peels of zucchini squash. Truckloads of zucchini squash, peeled by the students, the peels saved and the squash discarded. We could take home all that we wanted. It was years before I could look at another zucchini. I had tons of recipes!

The blue color of the enzyme came from the copper that it contained. My work involved purifying the material from the squash peels, concentrating it, finding out its molecular properties such as weight and size, and working out how the copper was attached to the protein.

One pretty summer day, my professor told me I'd be finished with my research in six months or so. So, anxious to start a family, I promptly got pregnant. Three years later, I finally finished my degree! But in the meantime, I had a beautiful little boy, Bruce. He is now a manager at Oak Ridge National Labs, working on data in the field of climate change.

The student-athletes are:

Although, in this issue you will have the opportunity to learn all about the Sidney Veterans Memorial Park and the proposed Alumni Veterans Memorial from the various articles, I am using this column to focus your attention and provide an exclamation point on this very important and historical matter. Because honoring our ALUMNI Veterans, particularly those who gave the ultimate sacrifice, will, in my opinion, become one of the most important undertakings and proudest moments of the Association, I want to implore all Alumni to embrace and support this endeavor. I expect this memorial to become a major part of our history and legacy. row. All three were Susquenango League Champions highlighted by the middle season of 1963 in which the team finished a perfect 18-0.

The Sports Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony will be held during Homecoming Weekend October 14-15, 2011.

News From Haiti and An Invitation to Volunteer From Bert Anderson, '66

Dear Friends:

Well the election results are in and at least for the time being everything is calm/normal for Haiti. President elect Mattenly has been having meetings with various organizations and has already made a trip to the US meeting with Hillary and others about his goals for Haiti. Time will tell on how successful he will be. I continue to be optimistic as I observe clean up operations and development of transitional housing here.

We are in the rainy season right now with some pretty good downpours each night. The days are bright and sunny with temps into the 90's and high humidity. Our construction project ,the Medical Clinic, has been progressing well. The land we are building on is a hillside so it presents some challenges. At any given day though there are about 20 workers employed there digging/mixing cement/tying rebar etc.

Tomorrow I will be touring the site with a group from Jamestown New York who are committed to building a school in the community of Gallette. They are looking at options which include using CSI (my former affiliation here in Haiti with teams from the US) to build the school or giving the project to a Haitian contractor as we have done with the clinic. Obviously my heart is with doing as much of the work as possible with local labor and talent. The Haitian Head Engineer of our project is a graduate of McGill University in Montreal which is considered the Harvard of Canada. I have the up-most confidence in his abilities. I have scheduled a lunch time meeting with him and this team on Monday May 2nd. We have hosted an additional 2 short term teams since I last wrote. Our last team was made up of 3 dear friends of ours, Michelle from Jamestown NY and John and Vickie from Ohio.

John and Vickie used to fill in for us at our old job when we went back to the states on furlough. John is retired and spends a great amount of time working with the homeless in Cincinnati . He and Vickie also work with an intercity church there and do teaching/mentoring with kids in the city. The additional 3 team members were women from Oneida New York who had been to Haiti with CSI before but wanted to see Haiti from a different perspective. We had a great time. The highlight of the trip for them was the day we spent at Little Children of Jesus which is an orphanage for disabled children run by Food For The Poor. We spent the whole day interacting with the kids while painting the walls of their day room (10 gallons of paint!! Color light yellow).

For some people it can be a very difficult place to be but as I have learned despite their many disabilities they are children/souls that love unconditionally and express joy so openly that you can't help but love to be with them.

Roberta, my better half, is back in the states for a week to be with our daughter Rachel who is going through testing for what we think is Celiac disease. We are in constant contact thru email and all seems to be going well. We pray it is only Celiac disease which can be controlled by diet but we still request your prayers for her.

I'd like to throw this out here... if there are any individuals or groups in Sidney or with connections to Sidney who have interest in coming to Haiti on a mission trip we would love to have you here as our guests. We provide room/board (air conditioned rooms if electricity is on} at 45$ a day and the opportunity to work along side of some of the most beautiful people you can imagine. We limit the size of teams to 12 people due to housing and transportation constraints. The normal duration for a trip is a week. Air fare out of JFK is about 400 to 500$ round trip non stop.

Love and take care Bert Anderson (Class of 66)

Class Day 1941 Happy 70th Reunion Class of '41!!!

Joe Hager '61 is leading the charge, together with a strong committee comprised of Alumni Veterans. Over the next year this committee will be devoting their time and energy to selecting design, cataloging names of Alumni Veterans who were killed, and raising the required funds to bring the Memorial to reality. The Committee welcomes your ideas, suggestions and assistance but most importantly, your financial support. So when you are called on by this Committee stand tall, step forward and be generous. I know you will answer the call.

That about sums up what we have been about to further the purposes of the Association . What have you been up to in this regard?

Chapter News

The second meeting of the Arizona Chapter of SCHS class of '63 was held at Jim and Eve Morse's home in Phoenix. February 12, 2011 Those in attendance were Jim and Eve Morse, Fred Stevens, Charlie and Sally (McCauley) Morse and Jim and Sheryl Hawkins. Paul Possemato and his bride could not attend as they were out of town. Eve prepared a sumptuous buffet with a New Orleans flavor. I guess Fred had to travel the farthest from his man cave in Prescott AZ. Charlie and Sally drove over from Chandler and Sheryl and Jim came down from Scottsdale. We had a wonderful time telling Sidney stories and reliving highs and lows of our high school experience. We enjoyed the lovely weather on Jim and Eve's patio. The highlight of the get together was a trip on Jim's party barge around the lake in his back yard. We are planning another get together in the future and will concentrate on getting "Posse" and his wife to attend. We also chatted briefly about the trip Norma (Hayward Steimer) is trying to put together and we voted for New Orleans. Left to right: Jim Hawkins, Jim Morse, Fred Stevens, Sally McCauley Morse

Getting Reacquainted with 1956 Classmates

By Kay Greene DeMott Thinking about classmates I haven't seen in years, my thoughts ran to Charles Glenn for one. Where in the world is he and what happened throughout his life after Sidney Central High School.

In our class, "Chuckie" was an excellent student, a quiet guy, but friendly to everyone. He worked hard on his academics, committees and things of interest to him.

In the early 90s, on an trip to Dallas, our train had briefly stopped in Texarkana, Arkansas. There, the local newspaper was tossed on the train. When the conductor pushed my paper under the sleeper door, I started to read through a paper that had absolutely no connection to me.

Imagine my surprise, when opening to the entertainment section, Charles O. Glenn was peering out at me on the front page, as Kenneth Killcoyne. The article was covering the movie PHILADELPHIA, which was soon to be released. Having seen the flick, I always chuckle recalling the sauna scene.

After an online search, my sources took me to several sites outlining his work and accomplishments; here is where I found that Charles also acted in The Perfect Nanny as Dr. Tanner Wallace, Beloved as a Helpful Gentleman, in Hairshirt as B. J. Copp Producer and in Bug Buster as the Governor.

\sim Let's go back to the beginning \sim "Susquehanna Son"

Chuckie Glenn, a very tall kid in our class, wearing dark -rimmed glasses, always friendly to everyone and smart ~ you knew he would do great things !

Charles tells me that he did like growing up in Sidney, NY and has fond memories of upstate New york. His parents took his sister and him on vacation, usually to a place where they could enjoy their love of the theatre and other cultural happenings. His mother, Janet, was very instrumental in cultivating his love of the theatre and the movie industry.

Those trips and his love affair with Smalley's Theatre films on Main St., Sidney seemed to entice him to his career plans of his future. He talks about the ticket booth in the front of the theatre where he would pay his 11 cents or 14 cents to see the movie, each time the movie changed. Another recollection from his youth was the visit of Gene Autry's sidekick, Smiley Burnett, to Smalley's Theatre, Having returned for a visit when his mother was ill, Charles took time to see what had become of Smalley's Theatre and was surprised to see a pizza parlor and a nail salon where his theatre used to be.

He also liked to hear radio dramas on a week night; where the villains and the heroes made the scenes come alive in a young boy's mind. He notes that when the drama was finished, he often heard the train whistle from downtown Sidney and could make that part of the drama as well. These sights and sounds contributed to his love for the theatre and acting. The Newsreel in school, gave Charles writing and advertising opportunities, which he enjoyed.

nated Outstanding Lieutenant of the First Army. He retired as a Captain, USAR.

He worked briefly, in the Medical Journals Division, of the Philadelphia based, Lippincott Publishing Company as an Asst. Editor before leaving for New York City to assume responsibilities as executive assistant, to the president of a prominent sales promotion agency, Robert, Richard and Walters. It was during this time that he made up his mind to avidly pursue a career in the motion picture industry.

He literally fell in love with the excitement and romance of the art form of the "moving image" first introduced to him, as an infant, by his mother at the Capitol Theatre in Hancock, N.Y. at a engagement of, John Ford's 1939 iconic western, "Stagecoach", starring John Wayne, as "the Ringo Kid'.

However it was really Smalley's Theatre on Main Street in Sidney that was his principal Port Key to the power, glamour and enchantment of the world the movies. He has seen literally hundreds and hundreds of films during a career spanning some 43 years in every possible theatrical venue from luxuriant motion picture palaces in New York, Los Angeles, Cannes, Madrid, London, Berlin, Stockholm, Paris and Rome to small intimate screening rooms and tiny film editorial offices in Manhattan and Hollywood, yet the remembrance of the tiny outside ticket booth, the V-shaped , channeled marquee boasting the newest feature playing inside "going to the movies" at Smalley's remains the purest and most impactful entertainment experience of his life.

Not knowing a single living sole in any part of the film business, but sustained by this childhood love affair with the cinema and the men and women who made movies, he set out to visit every major movie company with headquarters in Manhattan. M-G-M, Warner Bros. Columbia, Allied Artists, Paramount Pictures, Twentieth Century Fox (Universal Pictures home offices were always in Hollywood) determined and resolute on finding an entry level position in the motion picture business. A Susquehanna Son and the Silver Screen. One of the truly amazing connections between his being present at that 1939 showing of "Stagecoach" is that he would supervise the marketing campaign for John Wayne's last motion picture, "The Shootist". Look at website tildenthemovie.com.

By the way, the The Lux Radio Theatre hosted by Cecil B. De Mille was certainly one of the other influences on a young boy's mind dreaming of far away places and distant lands. Radio, the Theatre of the Mind, also played a vital part in his desire to be part of something vastly different from his peaceful, bucolic surroundings in quiet Delaware County.

Charles has worked on such great movies as those noted on his website http://charlesoglenn.com/

What fun I had re-acquainting myself with Charles Owen Glenn during our phone conversation and hope you will enjoy reading this update about one of our '56 classmates. We will continue in the next edition of Reflections. 2011 brings our 55th year since graduation and it is fitting to note some of those persons from our class.

Sidney Historical Association Museum Holds Many Treasures

By Karen Cycon Dermody, '63

I have been a member of the Sidney Historical Association for many years, but recently, circumstances in my life permitted me the opportunity to take a more active role by volunteering several times a month at the museum. What I found in those two rooms are reams and reams of paper and books documenting Sidney's history.

There are artifacts and folders and microfilm filled with stories of the people who contributed to this area. They are famous and infamous, rich and poor, your family and mine and people who lived here that we never would have known about except for this wonderful museum.

I am hard pressed to leave at the end of my time volunteering because I have usually found something fascinating that I don't want to stop reading. The very small group of volunteers are committed to maintaining these rooms and making it available to all. I urge you to take advantage of anytime you might be in Sidney to take a look at what is there.

The recent formation of a committee to create a Sidney Veteran's memorial led me to see what information was contained in the museum about those who have served our country who lived in this area. I was pleased to find a wealth of information, lovingly gathered and placed in several notebooks and folders, about veterans from the Revolutionary War to the present. One of those vets was my Dad, Joseph Cycon.

My father came from Buffalo, NY to the Sidney area with the Civilian Conservation Corps and elected to stay in the area after. He joined the Army and was assigned to Company F of the 262nd Regiment of the 66th Infantry Division which was activated in April of 1943. By November, 1944, he had reached the rank of staff sergeant.

In late November, 1944, the division went to England to prepare for combat in Europe. When the Battle of the Bulge took everyone by surprise in December of that year, my father's regiment was quickly mobilized to be sent as reinforcements. On Christmas Eve, 1944 they boarded a Belgian ship being used as a troop carrier and crossed the English Channel to France. About 5 miles from their destination, the ship was torpedoed by a German U-boat. 802 lives were lost by the time the ship sank. There were 197 men in Company F and only 19 of them survived. My father was one of 5 men from the second platoon who lived.

My mother, Margaret Gill Cycon, was at home with her parents in Sidney at the time and expecting a child the following June. She received a letter from my father written on January 11th but because the censors didn't allow him to say anything about what had happened, the letter didn't say anything substantial about what had happened. In the meantime, my mother had been receiving many concerned phone calls from anxious relatives of men in my father's company asking her if she could obtain information from him about their sons and husbands from whom they had not heard anything since before Christmas. She was very depressed and worried herself and so didn't do much more than open a package she received from my Dad.

It contained a pair of blue French lace gloves. A few weeks went by and at the urging of a visiting friend, she finally tried the gloves on. When she attempted to put one of the gloves on, one of the fingers refused to go all the way in. Something was stuck inside it. Wedged into the glove was a small rolled-up piece of newspaper. It was a short article, written before an information black out, that told of the sinking of the Leopoldville on Christmas Eve. In this way, my father was able to outwit the censors and inform my mother that he had survived the sinking when so many of his good friends had been lost.

down to my children and grandchildren. The Leopoldmany, many stories that you can read about at the Sidney Historical Association. All of them are fascinating open house during Alumni Weekend and the hours are posted on the weekend schedule.

There are several ways in which we hope to accomplish this. The simplest way is that you will go directly to our website read this, www.sidneyalumni.org and join using Paypal. The SCSAA has a class roster that contains the names of all Sidney alumni. Your contact information is only as current as your membership. When you join or renew and send your contact information, it is entered in the roster and on the website unless, in the case of the latter, you indicate you do not want it posted. The future of Reflections depends on alumni maintaining their official membership

The list of Class Representatives has been updated and revised. Please check the list. Are you listed as the "Class Rep"? If so, is your contact information, i.e., name, address, phone number and email address, correct?

Is there no Class Rep for your class? Would you like to volunteer?

The membership form is in Reflections, and an abbreviated form is on the website. Membership is cheap - and it's about the only thing that is these days!
